The Atká Lakota Museum & Cultural Center, an educational outreach of St. Joseph’s Indian School sits on the banks of the Missouri River in the heart of Chamberlain, South Dakota. Since the museum’s start in 1991, thousands of visitors have experienced the powerful works of local Dakota, Nakota, and Lakota artists. A stroll through the museum is a walk through the Lakota timeline, starting with their settling on the Great Plains. Consisting of much more than displays and informational plaques, the exhibits feature video kiosks with short presentations on the lifestyle and rituals of Plains Indians.

The museum’s collection features contemporary art, historical artifacts, and educational displays depicting the proud heritage of the Lakota people. Their story is told through interactive displays, English-Lakota descriptions, and continues in the Gift Shop which provides local artists a venue to market their work.

Much of the museum’s original collection came from gifts given to St. Joseph’s by alumni and friends since the school opened in 1927. Since the museum opened in May 1991, many new pieces have been acquired. Each year we continue to add relevant pieces to the collection. In addition, the outside walls showcase historical drawings of ten influential Lakota and Dakota chiefs.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

The Aktá Lakota Museum was spectacular! Beautifully designed and steeped with historical artifacts and informative displays. It is a priceless tribute and I was honored to visit!

— Mary Z., South Dakota

I wasn’t expecting this to be quite so well done. The displays are very interesting and are arranged well. The whole thing feels like a first-class museum. Very impressive.

— Joe W., Illinois

A wonderful learning experience about the St. Joseph Indian School and the Lakota Indians and their culture. The Medicine Wheel Garden was beautiful and well worth the visit. The museum is a thought-provoking tribute to the American Indian.

— Kunter A., Istanbul, Turkey
Each spring, the camp circle moved to higher ground. Men fixed and created weapons and resumed hunting. Women gathered early berries and roots and repaired the tipis. Children enjoyed the warm weather after the confines of winter.

When the buffalo was gone, Lakota women used their sewing skills to create traditional designs on quilts that would take the place of ceremonial buffalo robes. Contemporary quilts are an enduring representation of vibrant culture and are still used in traditional ceremonies today.

The Owínža exhibition highlights the history and beauty of Lakota quilts from as early as 1893. These quilts embody cultural traditions that survived through the perseverance and adaptability of the native people. The exhibit opens May 20 and runs through October 31, 2022; a reception and exhibit lecture is planned for Friday, July 3, 2022.
The words and images we use to communicate differ between cultures and change from generation to generation. Creation.Story explores how a culture’s most important messages find a way to endure. This show is a contemporary version of the (Lakota) creation story, a collaborative exhibit featuring the MFA thesis work of Oglala Lakota artist Keith Braveheart. The exhibit is being co-curated by Keith BraveHeart and David A Meyer II – together they have expanded the exhibit to include the work of nine additional artists, who created work specifically for this show.

The museum will host an artist reception on Sunday, May 15, 2022, from 3:00 – 6:00 PM with artists speaking about their work throughout the afternoon.
The Aktá Lakota Museum promotes learning for children of all ages and abilities through interactive, informal, hands-on exhibits and programming. The museum is a welcoming, fun, and enjoyable environment that honors the rich, beautiful history of the Lakota people. Exhibits, both inside and outside, are designed to include subjects in art, literature, culture, and history. The Aktá Lakota Museum is a place that provides children and adults a living lesson on the American Indian way of life — both past and present. Admission is Free! Plan your visit today!
